Pre-harvest notes from the winemaker, Michelle Shafir:

After a mild growing season in 2023, harvest is finally at the doorstep. Miner's cellar team hopes to bring in the first grapes, Rutherford and Chiles Valley sauvignon blanc, right after Labor Day. But, as Michelle Shafir says, it's been a "hurry up and wait" kind of year. A cold, wet winter followed by a cool spring and summer will also delay the next grapes, Carneros and Oak Knoll chardonnay. But overall, Michelle is very pleased with the ripening flavors in those grapes, along with healthy quantities of clusters on the vines—hints, according to her, of what's to come.

2019 The Oracle highlight:

Our flagship wine The Oracle is our Bordeaux-style blend that is widely acclaimed for its balance of finesse and decadence. Dense, juicy, red-and-black fruit characteristics and a framework of fine tannin are on display again in the 2019 vintage, a wine that reflects the near-ideal conditions of that year's growing season and harvest.
